

Stanley and Mitchell's trip to the dentist

Once upon a time, two little kids Stanley and Mitchell had to go to the dentist. They were very scared, this was their first time to the dentist and worst of all they had to get there teeth filled because they had cavities! So Stanley and Mitchell went to the dentist, crying that they didn't want to go, but it was too late they were already there. So they walked in and saw an office and some comfy chairs to sit in, as there mom was checking them in. They read some cool comics and played with some transformers and other toys too. Their mom sat down to say "you guys will be called in a few minutes". Then in just 2 minutes they were called. When they got in they saw a nice man named Dr. Charles and a nice lady named Dr. Kellie and they greeted us with kindness and asked us both to sit down. So we sat down and asked "is it going to hurt" and he said "just a little bit". "Oh dang" we moaned. "Open wide kids" Dr. Charles said. So we opened. Dr. Charles and his nice puppet friend Dr. Moody slowly gave each of us numbness shots so when our teeth get filled we wouldn't even feel it. 1 2 3 yank! ... Our cavities were gone "yippee" we both exclaimed. Then at the end we both picked a prize and left. Going to the dentist is fun... not scary. 😊
